Hi Greg,

I hope you had a nice Christmas. Thank you for all the work that you do at RaPower3. Thank you for all your support and patience

You probably know by now that I am very impressed with Neldon and IAUS. I am too

I really believe in their technology. But, I am starting to feel a little worried about the amount of time that it is taking to get those lenses on towers and generating rental income. The extra time was getting the mass production and installation capabilities up to 25 towers a day. That has pretty much been completed. I'm pretty sure that the first quarter of 2016 will be a very good one for us. It will all work out.

I'm planning to purchase more lenses this year, but could you please let me know what you think about the following questions that I have: Could you please let me know what you think is left for IAUS to complete before our lenses can be on towers and generating rental income? Not much if anything.

Could you also please let me know if you think the lenses will be on towers and generating rental income in 2016? I very much think so! I'm just looking for your general thoughts. I know that all sorts of unforeseeable things can happen to cause further delays. Happy New Year! and I truly think it will be a very happy new year with RaPower3 and IAUS.

Thanks.

Preston
